Optimization Methods for Social Simulations

In order to get high quality papers, we invite you to submit paper to Invited Session on Optimization Methods for Social Simulations in International Conference on Machine Learning and Cybernetics (ICMLC) 2022.

Description

In this session, we discuss about optimization methods for social simulations. In social simulations, there are many optimization problems to be solved. They have many parameters to be optimized to fit existing cases. After developing simulation models, combinations of parameters in a policy should be optimized to find a better policy.

Topics of Interest

- local search algorithms
- simulated annealing
- taboo search
- evolutionary computation
